CASTING REFLECTIONS

Versatile PEG NOURSE, editor of the "Curtain Call" these past four years, director of "Heart of the City", "Only an Orphan Girl" and mother of two young daughters was encored back in the same role of Sylvia. DOREEN HOPPER appears again, not as the Countess as she formerly did, but as Nancy—no, it isn't done with mirrors, just fine acting. Comely VIRGINIA CURTIS, former drama major at C. P. S. is a newcomer to the Little Theater, welcome Virginia. DAISY BRYANT, who has appeared as everything from a tongueless amah to an over-talkative "fly-by-lady" theatrically, that is, is the life of every cast, as well as KATHRYN MITCHELL, Stadium grad, a nurse in real life who played the nurse in "Men in White". ANITA NORMAN, who put the aura in "Laura", gives the kids a break at Milton by being their teacher; did someone say apples are getting scarce? NANCY JACKSON, darling of the cast, acts bigger than she is,
