Directors' Notes & Bio

Tonight you will hear many of the songs written by or made famous by Fats Waller. These songs represent a celebration of life during the 1920's & 30s, but still pertain to today's living. Fats would have been 90 years old this year but due to his zest for life; he loved to eat and drink, he died at the early age of 39. Along with Louis Armstrong, Mr. Waller was one of the first authentic black superstars in the white world. Sit back and relax and listen to the vibrant music of this brilliant and creative composer.

Jon Douglas Rake has directed and choreographed numerous professional shows during his career. As a dancer, he toured South America, performed at Disneyland and was featured in many shows in Los Angeles. His passion for musical theater has led him to form MUSIC THEATER TACOMA, a new non-profit theater company. Their first production will be presented this summer at the Kemper Center at Annie Wright School.
